Miscellaneous.

From the Englishman (Calcutta) of June 8:-The celebrated volumes of the French Aobé Huc on China, and Sir Ruthertorg now before us; but for practical utility. residence in any of the places coming within its compass, The Treaty Ports of China and Japan, by Messrs Mayers, Dennys and King, far surpasses them. It is difficult to know under what class of books to place it. for it contains a mixture of history, topography, hygiene, Murray's Hand-book and Bradshaw's Guide, all as complete and excellent in their own line as could be expected; and though, perhaps, the book will not prove attractive to students, it is calculated to give a more intimate knowledge of the towns it describes, anded by the excellent maps which accompany it—the work entirely of Chinese—than any of the more elaborated works that have preceded * * * We trust we have said enough a show that for any one about to visit, or reside in either of the countries described. this work contains not only most valuable information, but many useful hints,

(N. C. Daily News, May 16.)

A very interesting book has lately been published, entitled "The Treaty Forts of China and Japan," to which it forms a complete guide, and regarding the history of which it gives interesting particulars. Mans of the various localities described are mserted, and an appendix shows the existing means of transport between Europe and America and these two countries. work of the kind was much needed, to blace within reach of the general publie miormation regarding the districts in which they reside that had hitherto been concealed under the mysterious hieroglyphics of the Chinese language, or at best open only to sinologues. The modest hope expressed by the authors, that much will be found in the present book that is new and unknown to the general reader, is, we think, fully justified. * * * Hongkong and Canton, for example, each occupy more than 100 pages, comprising every conceivable particular regarding them, from their history native and foreign, to particulars of the geological formation and botanical wealth of the neighbourhood. * * * Not the least interesting feature in the book under review, is the insight it affords us into the character of the population in dif ferent parts of this vast empire. * * * One of the most interesting chapters is devoted to a sketch of the history and topographical eatures of Formosa. The vicissitudes of its history, the peculiarities of its inhabit. ants, and the reputed mineral wealth of its hillsaffordample subject for research; and, to a person of Mr Swinhoe's tastes, must have offered pewerful attractions. From his "Notes on Formosa" are derived many of the particulars given in the work under review. * * * Interesting descriptions of the fauna and flora of the island are given, for details of which we refer our readers to the book itself. We have, we believe, said enough to show the scope and character of the work; and must take leave of it for the present, though with the intention of completing our sketch of the information it gives regarding the various treaty ports, on a future occasion. In the meantime, we can assure our readers that no one who takes the trouble to gain a more intimate knowledge of it, will regret the time employed.

(Singapore Free Press, May 9.) We referred briefly, several days ago, to a new work published by Messrs. A. Shortrede & Co., of Hongkong, entitled "The Treaty Ports of China and Japan." But it would be utterly impossible, in a condensed notice of such a work, to give an adequate idea of its contents. The historical events of interest since the foundation of the settlement of Hongkong, are perhaps too much condensed into a general summisry; but the most important feature in the composition of the society of the present colony, is detailed at greater length. When we come to consider that the book before us makes no pretensions to be a history, but merely a guide book, we cannot hesitate to pronounce it at once the most complete work of its kind ever issued. The Appendix may be termed the China Bradshaw, and the text teems with inceresting papers,—historical, botanical, and descrip tive. The maps and plans are useful illus trations of the geographical position of the treaty ports, and a valuable assistance both to travellers and residents.

From the Hankow Times, May 18. We feel it to be a public duty to take the first opportunity of calling attention to the "Guide Book and Vade Mecum" just issucd for "travellers, merchants, and residents in general," in the Treaty Ports of China and Japan, by Messrs Shortrede & Co., of Hongkong. * * * The order of lescription of the various places follows heir position on, or from the coast, as we go northward. In each instance the history, position, means of access, accommodation, foreign residences, public buildings, community, mode and cost of living, cli mate, associations, amusements, places of interest, native institutions, population, local government, natural history, productions, and statistics of trade are given, along with a miscellaneous detail of facts and incident in connection with particular localities. So far as we are able to practically test the incividual descriptions of the various places, they are given with a considerable degree of fairness and fulness. Peking Yedo, and Macao are wisely included in the general survey. * * * The value of the book is greatly increased by a most copious index, and the work closes with a set of useful appendices. The last of these is the greatest novelty of the work. It consists of a bibliographical index of all formal works published from the earliest date in the English anguage on China and Japan. Philological boo is are, for some reasons best known to the compilers, entirely excluded.

We hope to see this omission repaired in

THE CHINA MAIL.

CHECK TO THE A. A. G. Ir would be improper to review the arguments before His Lordship on Thursday until after he has delivered his judgment, but there is one part of the proceedings with reference to which we are under no obligation of silence. The Acting Attorney General, representing the Crown as prosecutor, refused to name aday for bringing on for trial the Crown coolie libel actions against the China

Mail for the following reasons:-Having regard to the circumstances of the case generally, and to the articles which appear from day to day, or rather from night to night, in defendant's paper, I cannot consent; and when the case comes before your Lordship you will, I am sure, deal with the defendant in reference to those articles as you did with a party some

-The animus of the Acting Attorney General overpowers his judgment and his memory. There have been no articles in the China Mail, in relation to the informations, or to the merits of the cases, that can fairly come within the cognizance of the Court, however much they may have irritated the Acting Attorney General. Before Senhor Horta's examination, we carefully abstained from comment beyond stating our willingness to defend in Court. But after that wonderful exhibition of the non mi ricordo faculty in a witness, from the statements he made, and from what had come to our knowledge through authoritative sources, we felt justified in saying openly (on Aug. 8):--

"Some folks of tender but uneven consciences may blame us for making these libel actions the subject of discussion in our columns. Under ordinary circumstances their objection would be good. But it is quite a different affair in Regina v. Saint. Her Majesty, and therefore all her subjects, are the prosecutors, on behalf of another Monarch and all his subjects. It is avowed by the prosecution that no private injury has been done by the alleged libels; that the damage, if any, affects only collective reputation and character; that the funds for defraying the costs of the prosecution liberty of descenting as freely as he choose on the case as it is disclosed against him." __This was our first avowed intention of treating these libels as a matter which we should regard as exceptional, and wh are not without hope that the public ge nerally will, under the peculiar cit cumstances of the case, agree with u that our intention is just. But what had been the effect of the articles which have since appeared in the China Mail? On was elicited by His Excellency's dis claimer, through the Chief Justice, o any official knowledge of, or sauction to the actions. Others related to the tenur of Macao by the Portuguese. Lord Stan lev's remarks on the "grave and note rious" character of the abuses of th coolie emigration carried on from Maca elicited some additional observations But not one bore any reference to the merits of the case, or cases, which the learned Attorney General of Hongkong i prosecuting-or rather delaying to prose cute—against the China Mail. There is not a syllable in either that can be con strued into a contempt of court. Ha they been equally innocuous in respect of the Acting Attorney General of Hond kong, the China Mail would have been spared the outburst of spleen it had t endure on Thursday last.

The personal reputation enjoyed by th

Acting attorney General is of the ver

in all respects the China Mail is pursued for alleged public, and not for private libels. For all of which reasons the de fendant, fighting at long odds, claims the first class; but professionally he seems t be of a very vindictive character. Thus he won't bring to trial a defendant will has, as he says, aspersed a friendly ma tion, but lets that nation lie under an al leged imputation of a disgraceful and unmanly nature; nor will he accept a apology tendered in open Court, by brother barrister; and he invokes th punitive powers of the Court by a wron pretence on the head of an unoffendin fournalist. We have not offended agains the Court in any of the remarks that w have made, nor do we intend to enter o the merits of our case until they are dis closed to the public, or until other circum stances may leave us at liberty so to do We feel some amount of pity for the position in which the Acting Attorner General has placed himself. It is a pit that a long professional life, honorald pursued, should be associated with an ad which public opinion, at home and abroad will pronounce to be one of pure tyranu and oppression. Closer observers wil of course detect a motive for these infor mations, that is hidden from the worl at large, and the real reasons for delain prosecuting them will never perhap become very generally known, because i might be libellous to put them into print But the soreness evinced by the Act ing Attorney General is easily explainable The case has not turned out as promising as he thought, but that forms no reason why he should invite the Chief Justice t fine and imprison the China Mail, as b did on Thursday last, for no offence what ever, nor will it check us in the pursu ance of the intention we have alread

THE Attorney General based his legs right to refuse to bring Regina v. Sair to trial, mainly on the 60th Geo. II and 1st Geo. IV. c. 4, which is (curiou ly enough under the circumstances entitled." An Act to prevent delay in the administration of justice in cases of mi demeanour." The Hon. Mr Ball eviden ly regards the Act as having been frame with a different intent. The following is the clause :---"That in case any prosecution for a mi demeanour instituted by his Majesty's torney or solicitor general in any of th courts aforesaid, shall not be brought trial within twelve calendar months no after the plea of flot guilty shall have been pleaded therein, it shall be lawful for t court in which such presecution shall depending, upon application to be made the behalf of any defendant in such pros cution, of which application twenty da previous notice shall have been given to Majesty's attorney or solicitor general, make an order, if the said court shall just cause so to do, authorising such d fendant to bring on the trial in such pros ention; and it shall thereupon be law! for such defendant to bring on such tri accordingly, unless a notice prosequi sha have been entered in such prosecution."

PROSECUTIONS BY THE CROWN:

THE following, from Blackstone, shows how the extreme proceeding of ex officio informations is regarded by our best lawyers, and how it has been abused:-

There can be no doubt but that this mode of prosecution by information (or suggestion) filed on record by the attorney-general, or by the master of the Crown Office, is as autient as the common law itself. For, as the sovereign was bound to prosecute, or at least to lend the sanctio i of his name to a prosecutor, whenever a grand jury in- Decean. formed him upon their oaths that there was a sufficient ground for instituting a criminal mit: so, when these his immediate officers were otherwise sufficiently assured that a ban had committed a gross misdemeanor, Crown. But these informations (of every kind) are confined, by the constitutional law, to mere misdemennors only : for whereever any felonious offence is charged, the table law requires that the accusation be warranted by the oath of twelve men, before the party shall be put to answer it. And, as to those offences in which informations were allowed as well as indictment, so long as they were confined to this high and respectable jurisdiction, and carried on in a reason to complain. The same notice was the great and fiery feast of the Chinese at laid down near the threshold of the pre- and be distributed amongst ships' companies India.

in all respects the China Mail is pursued | given, the same process was issued, the | this season is conducted. Curiously enough, mises upon a piece of plank in order to | with the other articles of food. Mr Leach |

Mr Pollard, Q.o., contended that and this tyraunical mode of prosecution, with other oppressive devices continually harassed of the Chinese sampan-man could not the subject, and shamefully enriched the Crown. The traders were made to pay a number of extra duties under variety of names, some of which were only double the regular duties, whilst others amounted to ten times the regular duties Moreover, they found it necessary to satisfy the thanadar and local officials in innumer able ways. "They could not get their goods weighed," says Dr. Cayley, "or obtain permits to depart, or even procure food for themselves and their ponies, without first giving a present; and any man having a good horse, or other coveted article, was often onliged to sell it for a mere soug, or present it as a gift to avert greater Light weights were also employed by the local officers in order to increase the charges on the goods weighed. In short, the merchants were entirely at the mercy f the local officers, who were all powerful and irresat the expense of all those in their power."

The mild and beneficent Manarajah of Cashmere must have been wholly unsuformed of these scandalous proceedings on the part of his officials at Ladakh, in violation of the tariff of 1864. When, however, they were brought to his notice, he manifested a laudable desire to suppress these evils, to meet the wishes or the paramount power. Accordingly, as already stated, he dispatched Diwan Hira Naud "to assist Dr. Cayley in his endeavours to promote the trade with and through Ladakh, and to carry out re forms in the mode of leaving duty on merchandize pasing between British territories and the countries beyond the British fron But alas! the mild and beneficent Maharajah was once more doomed to disappointment. Diwan wirs Nand, who appears to have been largely endowed with those qualifications which characterize so many oriental administrators, assisted Dr. Cayley after a very peculiar fashion. He received Dr. Cayley with a great show of civi lity and attention, but secretly employed himself in throwing every possible obstruction in his way. Diwan Hira Nand kept up a close system of espionage upon Di Cayley and upon all who came near him and used every means to prevent the traders people of the country from going to that officer, either for medical advice or to furnish him with information. How the mild and bennicent Maharajah mourned over the baosslidings of this officious official does not appear in the Gazette. So ready however, was his Highness to carry out the appirations of the British Government as regards the improvement of trade and protection of merchants in Ladakii, that when the actual state of affairs was reported to him, he promptly removed Diwan Hira Nand from offering any further obstruction

We have, however, no wish to be hard upon the Maharajah. Like carthly potentates in general, and even private individuals, he naturally has a peculiar regard for his own interests. He cannot as yet be made to neither could Great Britain for many years, | could judge of furs. Dr Cayley is aghast that the Maharajah should seek to maintain a monopoly of Turwool into the Punjab would enable the Punjab sliawl manufacturers to compete with those of Cashmere. Here we fail to perceive any question of right or wrong. Our merchants certainly have as much right to Turiani wool as the Marajah of Cashmere, and the paramount power has very naturally taken the necessary steps for abolishing the monopoly; but we can scarcely blame the Maharajah for doing his utmost to from competing successfully, with those manufacturers who are his own subjects. windy ride before the dance. THE OLD RED SLEIGH

After moth r had gone to bed I went up stairs and brougt down my writing desk. Pliere were some sheets of paper and some delicate envelopes, which had been there for months stored within, and a silver pen and pen-handle, which had been a birth-day present in my school days. I took them out and the ink-bottle also. The ink was taisk, for we did not write much-either of us—and I brought the vinegar-cruet and thinned it to my liking. Then I sat down and looked at the paper. Then I went to the stairs and listened to see that mother was not coming. Then I actually seated myself, squared my elbows, and began to rite. This is what I wrote:

I sealed this note in the daintiest envepe I possessed, and wrote Hepsey Harrow's name on the lack, and hid it in the desk from mother's eyes; sharp eyes, that looked after me auxiously as 1 drove away with old Dobbin and the little redal sigh the following evening. DR. J. COLLIS BROWNE'S (Ex. Army Med, Staff) CHLORODYNE

IS THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE. CAUTIONS -- Vice-Chancellor Sir W. P. Wood stated that Dr COLLIS BROWAR was undoubtedly the inventor o curokovyne; that the story of the Delendant, Freeman, being the Inventor was deliberately untrue, which he regretted had been sworn to. Eminent ospital hysicians of London stated that ivr. J. Collie prowile was the discovered of chlorodyne; that they prescribe it largely, and mean no other than Dr. Browne's, See Times, Julv 12, 1864. The Public, therefore, are cautioned against using

Dr. COLLIS BROWNE'S Chlorodyne.

REMEDIAL USES AND ACTION. This invaluable remedy produces quiet, refreshing sleep, reli ves pain, calms the system, restores the deranged functions and stimulates heaithy action of the secretions of the body, without creating any o those unpleasant results attending the use of opium. Old and young may take it at all hours and times when requisite. Thousands of persons testify to its marvellous good effects and wonderful cures, while Medical men extol its virtues most extensively, using it in great quantities in the following discusses:-Diseases in which it is found eminently useful-Cholera, Dysentery, Districea, Colics, Coughs Asthma, I hemoatism, Neuralgia, Whooping Cough, Cramp, Hysteria, &c.

EXTRACTS, PROM MEDICAL OPINIONS. The Right ston. Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians and J. T. Davenport that he had received information to the effect that the only remedy of any service in Cholera was Chlorodyne

From A. Montgomery, Esq, late inspector of Hospitals, Bombay .- "Chlorodyne is a most valuable remedy in Neuralgia, Asthnia, and Dysentery To it I fairly owe my restoration to health, after 18 months severe suffering, and when other remedies Dr. Lowe, Medical Missionary in India, reports

The author in his Preface says :- "The tables in Chap. VII., for estimating prices, measurement of goods, exchanges, &c. have been selected from those constantly in use among the foreign merchants in China. Those for calculating the prices of tes in dollars or pence have been copied from the more extended tables, by the kind permission of the author, P. Loureiro, Req. The last section of the same chapter, on Movements in Bullion," has been prepared and furnished for the Guide by Patrick R. Harper, Esq., of the Commercial Bank of India at Hongkong, who has had much experience in the exchanges and movements of the precious metals in Eastern Asia. "The Appendix of Sailing Directions has been reprinted from the 'China Pilot.' With short interruptions, the coasts from Singapore to Hakodadi are all described in ; and for the Chinese coasts, the Directions have been improved by the insertion of the Chinese characters for the names of all places that could be ascertained."
